Using the ATLA Religion database to find articles on biblical texts

1. Select Articles tab from Library home page (http://library.cornerstone.edu)
2. Choose “Favorite Databases” and then ATLA-Religion.
3. Off-campus access requires students to login with their name and Disciplenet ID number.
4. When the EBSCO search screen opens with link to ATLA database, enter your topic as a keyword.
5. If looking for articles on a specific text, enter the book of Bible and chapter in quote marks. Do not enter verse numbers at this time, but rather browse the results list for relevant articles.

ATLA articles on “John 1”

1. Note from two preceding slides that we have limited the search to Articles, and to Full-Text, and to Scholarly Journals. If I want broader, and vastly more results, just omit any of these limiters.

2. This search resulted in 150 full-text articles from scholarly sources. However, notice also that the first dozen or so are actually on 1st John, not the Gospel, since they are “keyword searches”; jump to next page to see the articles from John’s Gospel.

1. Note that you can save citations from this search by clicking on “Add to folder”; then go to “Folder view”. This will allow you to email the list of citations to yourself, or save them to the RefWorks bibliography builder. (Ask for instructions in using RefWorks to make your bibliography in Turabian style—it’s a snap!)
